Great work again! It was wonderful getting to see you in two different scenes and really experience your range as a performer. You showed great versatility and were able to make each character feel distinct, with different energies and choices. It's exciting to see an actor adapt so naturally from one piece to another. Really nice work!

Ava, I enjoyed both of your performances! I'd love to arrange a Zoom meeting to discuss representation across Canada and learn more about your goals as an actor. Looking forward to connecting Strong actor, and should be booking lots.

No notes, and love the personality and acting.

10/10 acting!

Would really love to see something light and playful since both scenes were emotional/angry... I think you are great at that, but I want to see something lighter for range.

challenges scene partner well. intense. a bit one note at times to start; find levels a bit more. the eventual hurt was poignant. pops on camera. connects.

Authentic and great vocal range.

Watch out for holding a physical face too long as it can begin to look a bit mechanical if you don't relax the face more Very good!

I feel lucky to get to see you in a 2nd scene today! Your instincts in every movement and line you say seems like you're speaking from the heart with your own words...this is what makes an actor truly great. You successfully sold this scene too and I am almost out of words to say to you as I'm just beyond impressed. You better be auditioning a lot and booking a lot because you should be. Now go take over the world already :)

Great job! Don't give it all away so early. There's an opportunity for some bewilderment that's missing. There is a lot of room to really play up your performance with dynamics.

Another scene where she has to be emotional and do heavy lifting. She does it with grace. Nice instincts and lovely potential I hope she gets an agent after these two heavy scenes.

Wonderful to see the switch from anger to compassion in this scene. Your face tells the viewer so much already so play with volume a little more. Really great work!
