This performance didn't really have me at the start but you eased into the scene really well and it ended up being a really nice scene to watch.

Such beautiful intensity in your work! I loved the slow build throughout the scene and how you allowed the emotions to gradually take over rather than giving everything away at once. When you finally broke down, there was such a compelling combination of anger, sadness, and anxiety—it felt layered, honest, and earned. Really beautiful work!

Nice to see you again Chanel! Good choices with the out-of-frame action (I'm a big fan of out-of-frame action in tapes!). Your ability to reach emotional moments quickly is impressive. I love watching you think throughout the scene and taking your time to process before reacting. You are such a genuine actor Chanel, I hope you know this. Your agent is lucky to have you as I think you are such a incredible talent. The time you take to deliver your lines keeps everything so real and your emotion is not overdone and, in my opinion, so well balanced. I'm a fan and I will never get tired of watching you work. Thank you for today :)

Great job! Really show more shock when he says he knows you are sick. That should terrify and shock you and that moment supercharges the rest of the scene.

I'm thrilled she found an agent! It's been nice to see her range and do so many different scenes. I like that she is not just a pretty face.

I remember you from that last showcase. Fabulous actress truly! My only note would be to be aware of your head shakes and movement. You can deliver an even stronger performance in the crying moments when you don't use your head shakes to emote as well. Brilliant work, you are fab!
