MJWATTS.

Hey Colton Good work on the scene! You made some strong choices and brought a nice, natural quality to the performance. One small technical note: the lighting felt a little dim, which was slightly distracting, so I'd recommend brightening it up for future self-tapes. Overall, nice work

For some reason it doesn't save the comments I am writing on the other performance box, but my notes on this performance arse the same as from the other. I think the reactions are a bit forced. Focus on just listening, and don't worry too much about SHOWING you are listening or reacting to the other person's performance. This will make your performance more grounded. Great look and voice!

It was really nice getting to watch you tackle such a different character this time around! You showed great versatility and an ability to adapt your performance to a completely different genre and tone. It's always exciting to see an actor demonstrate range and make distinct choices from one character to the next. Great work!

So great to see you again today! And it's great to see you in such a different character so that I could see more of your range. You have such an approachable & relatable manner about you which I really like. I can sense the sympathy & empathy in your eyes so you are really absorbing your material and giving us authentic interpretations. Great work, truly. Keep it up!

Love his slating energy. So different from the actor we saw earlier. I'm so glad I had a chance to see more of him and doing more in a scene. Nice potential.

I really got a sense of how this character was completely happy with his new life and was never meant to stay in a small town. Nice work!
